POULTRY FANCIERS AT FAIR.

Biggest Display of Chickens, Ducks, Turkeys and Pigeons in History.

Dallas, Texas—Poultry fanciers of the State have selected Thursday, Oct. 23, as their special day at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the State Fair of Texas, at Dallas, Saturday, Oct. 18, to Sunday, Nov. 2. As judging of birds exhibited in the poultry department will start Monday, Oct. 20, it is expected that practically all awards will have been made by Poultrymen's Day. Plans are under way for a program of unusual interest and dealing with the latest developments in the scientific raising of poultry.

Usually at each meeting of the State Fair meetings of the various associations of fanciers of the State are held at the Fair Grounds. There will be representatives from every association in attendance at the meeting to be held Oct. 23. Walter Burton, superintendent of the poultry department, said:

"We are planning to make Thursday, Oct. 23, a great day for the poultry fanciers of the State. Our display this year will be unequalled both in number of individual exhibits and in quality and it is expected that practically every exhibitor will be in attendance at the meeting. A number of valuable silver cups and other trophies will be awarded this year and these will be shown on Poultrymen's Day."

HORSES AT STATE FAIR.

A Record Breaking Showing Is Predicted for Dallas This Fall.

Dallas, Texas: Director W. I. Yopp of the exhibit horse division of the State Fair of Texas at Dallas, is predicting a record breaking showing for his department at the coming exposition. Classes in his division have been re-arranged and made much more attractive than in previous years. The splendid results of last year's show have resulted in a larger number of exhibitors reserving space. Mr. Yopp reports an unusual amount of interest aroused among breeders in Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Nebraska. Texas breeders will be more largely represented than last year. He said: "The showing at the Fair this fall will be a representative one in every respect. Our prize list has undergone a general revision, and includes practically every variety of horse now raised in America. Entries already made for this year's exhibition indicate that this department will be even more attractive than ever. There are a number of rich special prizes put up by various associations, and in addition to these the State Fair management will award nearly $700 in prizes. In the thoroughbred and standard bred and saddle horse classes the State Fair has always been a leader in the exhibiting of these useful types of horses. The entry list of this year denotes that the breeders of the North, East and Southwest are all preparing to send their horses to compete, giving assurance of a high class of exhibits.

"The saddle horse class is extremely well looked after. The Texas Saddle Horse Breeders' association offers a special prize for the best saddle animal, foal of 1913, exhibited at the Fair. This prize is divided into four moneys and totals $50 in value. For the best stallion or mare, three years old or under, the American Saddle Horse Breeders' association will award a special prize of $100. All entries in this class must be registered in the American Saddle Horse Register.

Tapped the Church Sleepers.
Nowadays no protest is made or any action taken against the sleepy man or woman who falls into a doze in the midst of the minister's sermon. In England 300 years ago the guilty offender would have been severely rapped over the head by men especially appointed to the task of keeping the congregation awake. For instance, in one parish in Shropshire, 25 shillings a year was regularly paid to a poor man to go about the church during the sermon and keep the people awake. He carried a thin, long wand in his hand, which he could conveniently stretch out over considerable space and rap offenders on the head or about the shoulders. With women he was always instructed to be gentler, to tap softly, but persistently, until the slumber was broken. For women, it was learned, were not so amiable as men on being aroused from a comfortable nap, and, if gentle means were not employed, were likely to get up and leave, causing no little commotion about them.—Chicago Tribune.

Duels in France.

A large proportion of the duels in France end without bloodshed. When the offense is not very serious it is agreed beforehand that the words of command shall be given so rapidly that the duellists will not have time to take good aim. Sometimes three shots are exchanged without a hit, and then the seconds step in and—"honor is satisfied." At the word "Fire!" the pistol is raised instantly, and it must be discharged not later than the word "three," so the speed with which these words are given regulates the time in which it is possible to take aim. Therefore the speed with which they are spoken is agreed upon beforehand, this depending upon the seriousness of the duel. The words are timed with a metronome. If the encounter be very serious this is set at the lowest speed, eighty beats a minute, which gives time for taking accurate aim. A speed of 140 beats a minute allows no time for aiming, and therefore is used when the seconds consider the duel should be made as little dangerous as possible.—London Answers.

Two Ways to Catch Rabbits.

By the first method "you take a lot of salt, mix some pepper with it, strew it on a very hard rock, then watch. The rabbits come and eat the salt, and the pepper makes 'em sneeze so violent they bump their noses on the rock till they fall in a swoon and you step up and pop 'em in your bag."

The other method was to "build a bustin' fire in the woods when the snow is plenty. Now, rabbits, you must know, is a mite cold blooded little critters, so they'll cum and set round it and warm their toes. Well, pretty soon they'll drop off asleep and the fire'll melt the snow into slush. And pretty soon the fire'll die out and the mornin' 'll cum on sharp and 'll freeze the slush into ice and ketch the little critters fast by the paws. Then all you have to do is cum round with yer ax and chop 'em out."—Robert Haven Schauler in Metropolitan Magazine.

Captured by an Orang.

There is an old story told of a native of Borneo who, with a party, went out to hunt an orang outang to sell to show men. This particular hunter got separated, and at the end of the day was still missing. A search was organized, and at the end of the second day he was found high up in a tree with an orang outang by his side. A rifle shot killed the big ape and then the man descended and told of his strange adventure. He had gone into the river to bathe, and as he came out was seized by the orang and carried to his lodging in a tree. To his surprise he was not otherwise molested. What the orang supposed him to be or what would have been the eventual outcome of this strange captivity no one knows, and the hunter willingly gave up the chance of finding out.

Captain Cook's Shilling.

Young James Cook, destined later to become England's greatest navigator, was at seventeen placed on probation in the shop of a small tradesman at Stathes, near Whitby. Seeing a new shilling in the till, the lad took it out, replacing it by one of his own. The master, missing the bright shilling, searched Cook's box and found it there, sent for a constable and for Cook's father and charged the boy with theft. The boy declared his innocence and explained. The master expressed his regret, and, although Cook's father and the master both pressed him to stay, his reply was: "No, father, I can't. Once a thief, always a thief. I must go." And he then went to Whitby and was there apprenticed to the sea.—"Captain James Cook."

Wholly Witless.

"Did you say he was half witted?"
"No; I only said he would be half witted if he had a little more sense."—Exchange.

The Thing He Remembered.

A young girl of romantic disposition sat at dinner next to a man who had once rowed on one of Cornell's greatest crews. She tried to draw him out on the subject of racing and of the particular contest in which he had captained the crew in his senior year. "I suppose," she said, "that your most vivid recollection of that race is of the cheers of the crowd as you came across the finish line?" He shook his head. "Maybe it was the start which burned itself on your memory; the recollection of the tenseness of the wait before you heard the starter's pistol?" Again he shook his head. "What is the thing in connection with the race that you remember most distinctly?" "Well," said the oarsman slowly, "when any one talks about that race it always brings one recollection, one picture, a very vivid one, to my mind right away." "What is that?" asked the girl eagerly. "The man who rowed No. 4, who sat just in front of me, had a mole exactly midway between his shoulder blades."—New York Tribune.
